Country: Venezuela

Background: Although Columbus was the first European to set foot on the soil, the region was inhabited by an estimated 500,000 indigenous peoples belonging to three principal groups—the Caribs, Arawak, and Chibcha. The country was given its name Veneziela (meaning 'Little Venice') by explorers Amerigo Vespucci and Alonso de Ojeda. The name Veneziela evolved into Venezuela. For most of the first half of the 20th century, Venezuela was ruled by generally benevolent military strongmen. Democratically elected governments have held sway since 1959.

Location: Northern South American, bordering the Caribbean Sea and the North Atlantic Ocean, between Columbia and Guyana

Capital: Caracas

Ethnic groups: Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, Arabic, German, African, and indigenous people

Languages: Spanish (official), numerous indigenous dialects

Amazing animals: Longest Snakes, jaguars, and armadillos

Places to see: Amazon jungle, Caracas, Guácharo Cave, or Salto Ángel (Angel Falls)

Food: Pabellón Criollo (shredded meat with onions and green pepper, beans, rice, and fried plantains), Arepas (small flat pancakes of fried or baked corn or corn flour dough), Huallacas (corn pancakes filled with chicken, beef, pork, onion, garlic, olives, raisins, tomatoes, green pepper, capers, and sugar and spiced with cumin, parsley, and black peppers wrapped in plantain leaves), and a variety of fruit like papaya, mango, and mamones

One Year Later at the New LRC

Article by: Vanessa L. Nwanze,
Reference Librarian

The Learning Resources Center (LRC) has occu-piated its new facilities for a year. The first year has been an exciting and eventful. Many of you stopped by to take a tour of the new building, to use the computers, to study, to hold classes and training sessions, to check-out or check-in materials, and a variety of other uses.

PCC dedicated the new building in honor of Gordon P. Allen. For over 30 years Mr. Allen, a "founding father" of Piedmont Community College, has played a major role in the continuing development of PCC.

Throughout the year, our building has provided more quiet space for studying, more computers, more resources for research, and more services.

The Business Center and conference rooms have been used often by the College. The

JAR promised to be a popular gathering place for the College community, and it has not failed its expectation during the first year. The College has thoroughly enjoyed access to regular and flavored coffee and tea and use of the snack machine. The students and staff loved meeting their friends and co-workers to converse with each other, to read, or study leisurely.

The LRC enjoyed providing refreshments and knowledge about the library during National Library Week in April at The JAR.

We look forward to having more fun with The JAR in the upcoming year. Look for coffee hours on the first Wednesday of every month, authors and poets sharing their work, providing performances by various musicians, group discussions, and other interesting activities.

The LRC staff hopes you will join us another exciting upcoming year.

Distance Education

Article by: Angela Vaughn,
Distance Education Staff
Assistant

PCC is offering twenty-six different online classes for the summer semester. Interest in these classes has been overwhelming. Classes filled up very quickly, leaving few seats available for students who waited to register. If you are a distance learning student, we would like to welcome you. We hope your experience with distance learning meets your expectations.

New to Distance Learning and traditional classes being taught at PCC is an online plagiarism prevention system called Turnitin. Instructors may request that students submit papers to Turnitin. Submitted papers are then compared with resources on the internet, with other student papers that have been submitted, and with various online databases, for similarity in text. For information on how to use Turnitin and how it can be a useful tool for students as well as instructors, please visit: http://www2.piedmont.cc.nc.us/DL/turnitin_students.htm

Summer hours for the Distance Education Center are 8:00 am until 6:30 pm, Monday through Thursday, 7:30 am until 12:30 pm on Friday. For technical support please contact Libbie McPhaul-Moore at 336-599-1181, ext 445, or Angela H. Vaughn ext. 246. Please visit the Distance Education website: <http://www2.piedmontcc.edu/lrc>

Pond Life
Beth McGregor—
Student

Once upon a time there was a frog who wanted a peaceful pond. For 20 years he lived with too many loud noises in addition to arguments. Everyone just couldn't seem to coexist. One day, Mr. Frog gathered the pond life for a meeting and asked, "Could there be some compromises made that would please all?" The crowd yelled in unison, "Yes!" After calming the critters down, a list was made with thoughts that could improve their homeland. There were certain times for loud noises and other times for quiet. As for the disagreements, all the inhabitants were to try and settle them in a proper manner. Finally, the pond animals attempted to live blissfully ever after, so the frog decided not to move from his home.

Summer
Daniel Majors—Student

Summer has always been a season to strive,
No wishing no waiting it's your time to thrive.
Ice-cream and cake can be so great,
Hurry up and eat before it becomes a puddle in your plate.
We have many dreams of relaxation,
To relieve stress, about the nation.

From all the summer work there is not time to play,
We have bills put aside to pay.
Even though we have kids that we love so dearly
It means so much when they are near me.
Taking the kids out to play can end up a tiring day,
I cannot wait until that sunny day they will listen to what I had to say.

In the summer you have that famous holiday; the Fourth of July
You know I get to fill my belly and my eye.
It is nice to go to a cookout to get a stomach full from the pig picking,
Save a little room though time will be ticking.
Look up in the air. Wow a sparkle! A glorious sight
Filling the summer night, with the radiant light.

Blueberries
Molly Brewer—
Student

In a world of green
Swirls the dancing dew
Rolling down shards of grass
It beads at the hue
Of a spindly and curious vine.

The serpent vine is not at home
On this crest of hillside
Where grass and wildflowers
Reign over the sprigly clover tide.

And as I glance over
The thistled alien winks
Through an eye of pure storm
At a hurricane's brink.

A blueberry here has laid to rest.
Though its taste is sweet
And its color best
The tongue tastes nothing sweeter
Until a secret is confessed.

A friend is lost
A sunset grayed
The dying leaves
Sleep in the shade.

But in a world of storm
Swirls dancing dew
And blueberries grow
To comfort you.
